Dear Sir/Madam:

I would like to nominate Glen Combs for induction into the Dawahares/KHSAA Hall of Fame. I have known Glen for over fifty years. He and I started grade school together and graduated from Carr Creek High School in 1964.

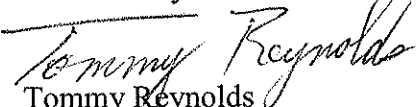

We were on the Carr Creek High School basketball team from 1962-1964, winning 68 games while losing 23. The 1963 team won the Louisville Invitational Tournament, defeating Louisville Seneca which features future stars Wes Unseld and Mike Redd.

Glen was a third team all state selection of the Courier Journal in 1964. He was a Kentucky All-Star and East- West All Star.

He chose Virginia Tech to further his education.

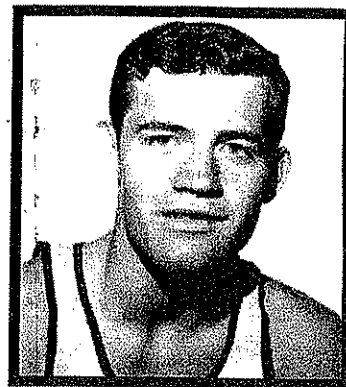

As the attached sheet explains he is very deserving of this induction.

Thanks for your time and consideration,

Tommy Reynolds

GLEN COMBS

1966-1968 FORWARD

Glen Combs, nicknamed the "Kentucky Rifle" for his long range shooting ability, led Virginia Tech to its first post-season tournaments ever, a 1966 trip to the NIT, and a 1967 appearance in the NCAA Tournament in which the Hokies came within an overtime loss to Dayton from earning a berth in the 1967 NCAA Final Four. He still holds the Virginia Tech record for most points in an NCAA Tournament game, scoring 29 in a win over Indiana in the Regional Semifinals. He led Tech in scoring in 1967 with a 21.3 average and in 1968 with a 20.9 norm. Despite playing only three seasons with the varsity, he still ranks 16th on Tech's career scoring list with 1,361 points.

A fifth-round draft choice by the San Diego Rockets of the NBA in 1968, he opted for the ABA instead, playing seven seasons for Dallas, Utah, Memphis and Virginia. He scored 7,666 points in the ABA, appearing in three All-Star Games and helping the Utah Stars to win the 1971 ABA Championship. A native of Carr Creek, Ky. he is currently residing in Roanoke, Va.
