Travis Ford

Travis Ford was a basketball standout for Madisonville-North Hopkins. During his prep career, Ford burned the nets for 2,676 points, but he was also known for his savvy ball-handling skills with 677 career assists. Travis was a four-year starter who helped the Maroons to a 106-22 record during that time. He helped Madison-North Hopkins to three consecutive Sweet 16® State Basketball Tournament appearances in 1987, 1988 and 1989, including a quarterfinals finish his senior year. Ford was named to the All State Tournament Team in 1989 and was a three-time All-State honoree. He was also a Parade & McDonald's All-America honoree and played for the Kentucky All-Stars in the annual Kentucky-Indiana battle. Travis went on to enjoy an outstanding collegiate career at the University of Kentucky. At the time of his induction, he is head basketball coach at Campbellsville University.
